Direct connection gives travelers access to lower fares and streamlined post-booking services

Distribution at SAS. “By connecting directly with Navan via our NDC channel, we’re expanding modern retailing at scale, unlocking richer content, and a smoother, more seamless experience for corporate travelers.”

Key benefits of the SAS NDC direct connect include:

- No surcharge: Bypasses the standard surcharge associated with SAS EDIFACT, a legacy airfare distribution protocol.
- Lower fare offerings: Access to SAS Light fares (an economy-style ticket type) and continuous pricing.
- Improved post-booking services: Streamlines servicing, enabling Navan’s agents to manage ticket modifications, disruptions, and refunds more quickly.

“We want the experience on Navan to be as smooth as possible for our users,” said Dane Molter, SVP Travel Marketplace, Navan. “It comes down to choice — our users want every flight option at the best price. Our new direct NDC connection with SAS lets us pull in their full range of fares, so users can book flights at competitive prices, with no hidden third-party fees, without ever leaving our app.”

The SAS NDC direct connection is available for customers in the Nordics, APAC, France, Germany, Ireland, United Kingdom, and with a planned rollout in the United States to follow.

By integrating directly with SAS, Navan reinforces its position at the forefront of travel innovation. This direct connection brings Navan’s total NDC and direct connection offerings to 25 global airlines, including British Airways, Air France, KLM, the Lufthansa Group, Iberia, United Airlines, and American Airlines.
